OBITUARIES

EDINBURGH

Gertie Gates

Gertie Gates, 95, of Edinburgh passed away May 19, 2022 at Homeview Health and Rehabilitation in Franklin. She was born Jan. 4, 1927 in Furth, Bavaria, Germany. She was the daughter of Otto and Margareta Meyer. She married Stanley Inlow and later married Donald Gates.

She is survived by daughters, Ramona (Jim) Dunn of Edinburgh and JoAnn Johnson of Franklin; bonus daughter, Linda (Larry) Ricketts of Edinburgh; stepdaughter, Patti (Leo) vonKeitz of Anchorage, Alaska; stepsons, Don (Lorraine) Gates, Gary Gates and Rick Gates, all of Columbus; grandchildren, Eric (Megan) Johnson, Christopher Dunn, James Dunn, Christopher Johnson, Ian Johnson, Zachary Johnson, Josh (Emily) Gates, and Jeremy (Bena) Gates; bonus grandsons, Rusty Ricketts and Dusty (Jenny) Ricketts; nine great-grandchildren; and two great-great grandchildren.

Gertie was fearless, tough and always unafraid. She often said that after living through WWII that nothing else could ever scare her. She became a U.S. citizen in 1963 but always considered Bavaria, Germany her home.

She loved European soccer, (fussball) particularly Bayern Munich, knitting, crocheting, needlepoint, traveling, animals and a good beer with foam.

Her last outing was at her daughter Ramona and son-in-law Jim's house on Mother's Day. She was given the choice of what type of dinner she wanted. They thought she would want a German meal but instead she requested tacos. It was a beautiful day spent with family.

Gertie also had a special family whom she "adopted." Larry and Linda Ricketts, Rusty Ricketts, Dusty and Jenny Ricketts. She loved sending cards and whenever she sent cards to Dusty and Jenny in Florida, she always included greeting their dogs. Linda was her bonus daughter and they spent much time together. Gertie loved her so. Linda was always there through many events (good and bad) in Gertie's life.

Rusty spent many Sundays with her. Over the 30-plus years their friendship developed into a grandma/grandson relationship. They played board games (which she liked to win) and had many pizza dates.

It is hard to put into words the relationship that Gertie had with Megan Johnson (grandson Eric's wife) She was her caregiver for more than 10 years, also her confidant, co-conspirator and most of all her loving granddaughter. Without Megan, Gertie would not have lived such a long, happy and independent life. She was able to live in her home until age 94. Gertie's daughter, Ramona, will never be able to express her gratitude and love for Megan.

She was preceded in death by her parents, husbands, niece and brother, Arthur Meyer. Gertie was of the Lutheran faith. She retired in 2004 from Bob Evans restaurant in Columbus.

Gertie's piece of advice was to "Live your life, travel and enjoy every moment."

A private graveside service will be at Rest Haven Cemetery in Edinburgh. Arrangements were made by Eskew-Eaton Funeral Home in Edinburgh.

Donations can be made to the Bartholomew County Humane Society.

Softball, volleyball suffer losses

Edinburgh's varsity softball team lost a heartbreaker to be ousted from the Indy Lutheran sectional and the varsity golf team got back in the win column hoping to finish their season strong.

May 23 had the Lancer golfers hosting both Morristown and Waldron at Timbergate. The Lancers came out on top, beating Morristown by nine shots and walloping Southwestern. The final tally was Edinburgh 174, Morristown 183, and Southwestern 214. Lancer Max Blandford was the match's medalist with a 38, Keegan Smith shot 41, Cash Cunningham 47, Trevor Moon 48, Wyatt Burton 48, Devyn Milburn 49, Mason Calhoun 51, and Devin Hamilton 60.

Also on May 23, the varsity volleyball team played host Indy Lutheran in the opening round of the IHSAA sectional. The Lancers carried a 6-2 lead through the first four innings but then Lutheran scored a pair in the fifth, one in the sixth, and two more in the seventh inning to tie the game. The Saints then went up by two in the top of the eighth. Edinburgh was able to add one more in their half of the extra inning but it wasn't enough as they dropped this one to the Saints, 9-8.

Carly Cowan had the only multi-hit game for Edinburgh with a single and a double. Edinburgh's only other extra base hit was a double off the bat of catcher Kyah Streeval. Cowan also had a pair of RBIs while MacKenzie Bieker and Caitlyn Hardman each drove in one Edinburgh run. Bieker pitched a complete game and struck out 10 Lutheran batters but was saddled with the loss.

Wilson, the formerly hugely popular afternoon drive-time personality at Indianapolis' WIBC Radio, will perform at 7 p.m. June 3 at The Pixy Theater, 111 S. Walnut St. in Edinburgh. The show benefits the American Cancer Society. Information: <https://theedinburghpixy.com>

A league of their own

Voter advocacy group seeks members in Johnson County

By Andy Bell-Baltaci
DAILY JOURNAL STAFF WRITER

The League of Women Voters, a century-old national organization dedicated to protecting and expanding voting rights, may soon have a local chapter in Johnson County.

Mary Kooi, secretary of the League of Women Voters Johnson County, is one of three original members in the county's Local League Development Team that was formed in August.

Now, the group has 15 members, and is awaiting to be affirmed as an official local league chapter this summer.

Although there are already local leagues in the surrounding Marion, Hamilton, Hancock and Brown counties, local women felt it was important to bring the League to Johnson County in order to make it more accessible to voters, she said.

"The leagues that are in our surrounding counties are a little drive for us and we just thought that there would be enough people in Johnson County who would support a League of Women Voters," Kooi said.

The league is open to anyone 16 years or older, not just women, despite the group's name, Kooi added.

In order to be recognized as a local league, the Johnson County members had to file a non-partisan statement, submit their bylaws and create a diversity, equity and inclusion policy. Kooi expects Johnson County to be officially named a local league in June, she said.

"The benefit of having a Johnson County League of Women Voters is we get to choose the issues we want to focus on," Kooi said. "Why I personally engaged with the League of Women Voters is to share unbiased nonpartisan information based on abundant research about social policy, natural resources, international relations and representative government. We share the information with people and there are a host of ways we advocate and take action after we do research."

While most of the group's meetings have been dedicated to becoming a recognized local league, once that status is affirmed, they will be able to hone in on issues they want to advocate for locally. The group hasn't listed those priorities yet, but roster manager Karen Lunsford said she already has some in mind.

"People are wanting to see women being able to determine with consultation with their family and physicians what should happen with their bodies; it shouldn't be done on a political basis," Lunsford said. "We know people want reasonable gun laws, but we don't see Congress or legislation acting on that. There are a ton of lies and misinformation floating around and people don't take the time to sort through

IF YOU GO

The League of Women Voters Johnson County will present information on the local chapter at a series of meetings, including one in Edinburgh:

6-7 p.m. June 2. John R. Drybread Community Center, 100 E. Main Cross St., Edinburgh.

what's true and what's not true. We see legislators supporting laws based on lies, and we can't have democracy when things like that are going on."

Cindy Cook, who will assume the role of co-president once the Johnson County league is recognized, wants to focus on local issues such as improving transportation and promoting the development of trails for biking, hiking and walking, she said.

Any issue the group decides on will have to be from a consensus of group members, she said.

Most of all, it is important for people to be involved with their communities and aware of the issues affecting it, Cook said.

"Civic engagement is essential to having a strong democracy. People need to be informed and to support democracy," she said. "As a longtime resident of our county, I've often been frustrated by the lack of information about candidates such as what are their qualifications and what do they want to achieve, what is their vision, what are they for or are they only against things? A local league can help fill that void by gathering that information and making it available to the public."

County sets aside $8M in ARPA cash for mental health facility

County officials continue to chip away at doling out nearly $31 million in federal pandemic relief funds — and this month they earmarked $8 million to go toward building a mental health facility.

The Johnson County Board of Commissioners' American Rescue Plan Act, or ARPA, special committee, tentatively earmarked the cash for plans to build a facility that could be operated by community corrections and a local health care provider, such as Johnson Memorial Health.

Alumni banquet

Annual gathering goes on despite storms, power outage

The long-planned Edinburgh Alumni Banquet was visited by rain, high winds, tornadoes, and then a power outage and loss of air conditioning but the event went on. Videos for the 50-year class and the history of the Edinburgh schools could not be shown, but are available from Ron Streeval. The attendees did get to enjoy a "style show" highlighting different letter jackets, ranging from back when the team was called the Maroons up to this year's Lancers jacket.

Highlights:

The oldest alumnus in attendance was Betty Waltz McQueen, from the Class of 1950.

The alumnus who traveled the farthest was Jerry Eades, Class of 1962, coming 2,282 miles from North Vaughan, Washington. Alumni also attended from Florida, Oklahoma and Delaware.
